FINE FARES OF MACKEREL.

Three Trips at Boston from the Cape Shore Today.

SCH. SALADIN AT NEWPORT.

Some Southern Seiners Have Been Salting Their Fish.

Capt. Flar McKown of sch. Saladin is losing no time evidently. Yesterday morning he came into Newport with 200 barrels of fresh mackerel and this morning he is back there with 200 barrels more. This is certainly doing business.

At Boston this morning are the following fine fares from the Cape Shore:

Sch. Lena and Maud, Capt. John W. McFarland, 300 barrels salt mackerel and 15,000 fresh mackerel.

Sch. Ralph L. Hall, 300 barrels salt mackerel and 15,000 fresh mackerel.

Sch. Natalie J. Nelson, 325 barrels salt mackerel, and 15,000 fresh mackerel.

These vessels will take out their fresh mackerel at T wharf and bring their salt fish here for market.

Sch. Constellation, Capt. Thaddeus Morgan, stocked $6000 on her Cape Shore seining trip, the crew sharing $118.28.

Sch. Seaconnet is reported to have made a good haul off Canso last Friday.

The netters out south report mackerel schooling 25 miles southeast of No Man's Land. They also report lots of dogfish off shore, but none in shore.

The seining skippers out south report that the fish appear to be coming back to the westward. They think that they have struck cold water this way and therefore changed their course.

Some of the captains and men of the netting fleet took advantage of the easterly to come home by rail yesterday. All report a good body of mackerel out to the southward and they expect netting to be good for some time yet.

All the vessels which made hauls to the southward Saturday, did not run them fresh to Newport, but salted their catches. The fish covered quite a territory, some of the fleet getting their hauls off Montauk while others were up off No Man's Land. At the latter place schs. Norumbega, George Parker and Lucania got good hauls, the latter getting four schools and lay dressing quite a long time.

The fresh mackerel at Boston yesterday from Newport brought nine cents apiece.

The fare of sch. Ralph L. Hall sold to John Pew & Son at $9 per barrel, that of sch. Lena and Maud to Fred L. Davis and that of sch. Natalie J. Nelson to the Knowles Freeman Co. of Boston, all at $9 per barrel.

The fresh fish of these three vessels sold at nine cents apiece.

FIRST SWORDFISH.

The first swordfish of the season was landed at Newport yesterday by Sch. Lafayette, Capt. George Peebles, of this port.

Mysterious Disease Kills the Por- gies.

A mysterious disease is killing menhaden in Narragansett Bay in large numbers and the shores of Prudence and Hog islands as well as Mount Hope bay, are covered with dead fish. Great numbers are also floating up and down the bay with the tide and have been seen far up the Providence river. The dead fish were first noticed last Wednesday, and since that time their numbers have increased rapidly. The fishermen say that the menhaden shoot up from the bottom until their heads are far out of the water; then sinking back, they wiggle a little and die.

Dead Fish Line Narragansett Bay.

Numerous schools of dead menhaden that had been driven high and dry on the shores of Narragansett bay are driving away residents and summer visitors. The beaches are one solid stretch of white fish from Kettle Point, just below Providence to Bristol Bay. Many people fear an epidemic as the fish have died of poison and the stench is unbearable.

Mackerel Notes.

Sch. Rebecca arrived at New Bedford yesterday with 175 barrels fresh mackerel. She reports schs. Lucania, Pinta, Faustina and Margie Smith making hauls at the same time.

The fare of salt mackerel of sch. Constellation sold to William H. Jordan & Co., at $9 per barrel.

Sch. Diana, Capt. James McLean, stocked $4086 on her recent Cape Shore seining trip, the crew sharing $90.28.

STUDYING FISHERIES.

Two Eminent German Officials
Were Here Yesterday.

Found Much to Impress and Received Considerable Information

The extracts from the report of the Massachusetts fish and game commission, which, with illustrations, were widely published in Germany, created much interest among those interested in the fisheries of that country. As a result the German government has sent to this country Prof. H. Henking of Hanover, general secretary of the German sea fisheries association, and Mr. Heidrich of Memel, Germany, one of the royal fish masters.

They called on Capt. Collins, chairman of the fish and game commission, Monday, and told him that they were here for the purpose of studying the fisheries of this state, with special reference to the utilization of power-driven dories, the introduction of which in the German fisheries, it is thought, will be very advantageous. Letters of introduction were furnished them to parties in Gloucester, Provincetown and Truro, in which places they will spend more or less time in studying the various fishery industries as carried on at these places.

Capt. Collins also took them to the Boston fish bureau, where they were introduced to Sec. F. F. Dimick, who gave them information as to his method of collecting statistics of the fisheries and transmitting information to the correspondents of the bureau.

The distinguished gentlemen came here yesterday and were taken in charge by Collector Jordan, who showed them about the wharves and shipping and curing establishments, giving them every opportunity of seeing the methods of taking out fish and also how they are cured, put up and shipped. They also spent an hour at the Board of Trade carefully inspecting the method of securing and posting the fishing arrivals, and the way of tabulating and preserving the statistics of the fisheries. The gentlemen were much pleased with the completeness of the system and told the board's statistician, Mr. Arthur L. Millett who explained the department to them, that it was the most thorough and complete they had seen. They departed for Provincetown on the 6.29 train.

1,200,000 LOBSTERS.

Hatchery Deposited in Maine

The work at this port is in charge of the United States Fish Commission Grampus.

The fry put over will probably be full grown lobsters in five or six years.
